Castle, and on Tuesday before starting to spend the day with a friend, Mrs. Keyser instructed the girl to whitewash the kitchen during her absence. Upon returning Mrs. Keyser found the job completed in a very sutisfactory manner. On Wednesday, Mrs. Keyser always churns, and last Wednesday, when she was ready she went out, and finding that Mr. Keyser had already put the milk into the churn, she began to turn the handle. This was at 8 o'clock in the morning, and then she turned until 10 without any signs of turned until 10 without any signs of butter appearing. Then she called in the hired man, and he turned until dinner time, when he knocked off with some very offensive language addressed to the butter which had not yet come. After dinner the hired girl took hold the crank and turned it energetically until 2 o'clock when she let go with a remark which conveyed the impression that she believed the churn to be haunted. Then Mr. Keyser came out and said he wanted to know what was the matter with that churn, anyhow. It was a good enough churn, if people only knew how to work it. Mr. Key-ser then worked the crank till 3:30 o'clock, when, as the butter had not come, he surrendered it again to the ment with a man in the village. The hired man, because he had an engageman ground the machine to the accompaniment of frightful imprecations. Then the Keyser children each took a turn for half an hour, then Mrs. Keyses tried her hand, and when she was exhausted she again enlisted the hired gir., who said her prayers while she turned. But the butter didn't come. When Keyser came home and still four d the churn in action he blasted his eyes and did some other innocent swearing, and then he seized the handle and said he'd make the butter come if he kick ed up an carthquake in doing it. Mr Keyser effected about 200 revolutions of the crank in a minute, enough to have made any ordinary butter come from the ends of the earth; and, when the perspiration began to stream from him, and still the butter didn't come, he uttered one wild yell of rage and disappointment, and kicked the churn over the fence. When Mrs. Keyser went to pick it up she put her nose close down to the buttermilk and took a sniff. Then she understood how it was. The girl had mixed the whitewash in the churn and left it there. A good, honest, and intelligent servant who knows how to churn can find a situation at Keyser's. There is a vacancy .- Max Adeler.

BRET HARTE'S PERSONAL AP-PEARANCE.

A lady correspondent in Washington sketches Bret Harto in these lines "Strolling through the lobby at Willard's yesterday, just after the breakfast hour, I saw leaning against the clerk's desk a trim, well-dressed, old-young man. His hat was off, and amid the locks of curling black hair that lay heavily massed over a square and high for head, threads of gray showed them selves. His eyes were heavy. Their lids were reddened by that peculiar dull crimson color that is produced by long and intense application over the writing or reading dock but from beneath their or reading desk, but from beneath their long lashes there shone out a genial light that betokened a fund of quaint and dry humor. As he stood there nonchalantly, talking to a friend, he ran, now and then, his hand through his hair, as though the head beneath needed caressing, or as though some flitting ache warned him that he had a brain, and that it had been overtaxed. I looked carefully at the face. Its features were all regular and well modeled. The nose carefully, even finely cut. Cheeks not too high, and still retaining the remnants of the bronze that the summer had put there. The mouth, kindly in expression, delicately lipped and mobile—a mouth made for smiles and for smile producing. The moustache heavy enough to shade the lirs and droop gracefully over the rounded NINTH DAY OF DECEMBER

The Zuily Republican. HAMSHER & MOSSER, A. R. MANGERS,

DECATUR, ILLINOIS: ∧Tuesday Evening, Dec. 1.

THE "cold" slaw editor wants to know wherein the Missouri fashion of spelling differs from any other that is right. It is well-known that "cold" slew is a telfic obtuse on this question, but if he will take the following samples from yesterday's edition of his paper, and submit them to some dull pupil in the lowest grade of one of our intermediate schools, perhaps he will be able to learn "wherein the Missouri fashion differe" from that in common

"Distionery;" "inscrutible," "oxaulted;" "symtoms," "convallesonce," "interferred;" dissertion; ' "discrestion;" "descussion."

Mr. Jewerr, President of the Eric railroad, has got a good thing Recent developments show that he has a contract with the company for his services for ten years at a salary of $10,000 per annum, amounting to $100,000. The payments, too, are arranged in a very convenient form, for Mr. Jewett, as fol lows for the first year, $25,000, on monthly pay-roll; $25,000 cash on Sept. 14th; five notes of the company, for $25,000 cach, payable in two, four, siz, eight and ten months Who would not be a railroad President?

"COLD" SLAW must excuse us for declining to enter into any long dissertations ("dissertions" he calls them) upon the orthography of any single word. Every "dissort' he makes only serves to got him deeper into the muc. ignorant as he seems of that fact, and that we were right in the first place upon the question which stated this war of words everybody about town is satisfied. Upon the question of spell ing in general we are content to rest the case upon the ver liet of the intellisgent people of Decatur, who have come to regard "cold" slaw and bad spelling as synonymous terms

THE prospect is that there will be a much larger number of contested seats in the Forty-fourth Congress than is usual. This will be owing to the fact that the contest was very close in a large number of districts, and wherever a Republican was elected by a small majority, his Democratic opponent depending upon the Demouratie majority in the House, will feel encouraged to enter the lists. There are over a dozen dis tricts in which the members holding the certificate of election had less than 100 majority.

* Our punisher of Choctaw and "cold" 'slaw rather plumes himself upon the facility with which he uses technical the of our honorable and exalted profess Latin and French terms, as will be scen by the following specimen bricks from his report of the proceedings of the Decatur Medical Sounty "Tyford," for Typhoid , "corruptions," for complications; "cow form of fevers," for low form of fevers, "pathologinations," for pathological conditions "Memontary," for mesentery, etc.

Oh, yes, tochnical terms are his "best holt," if he does sometimes condescend to such trivial matters as

WE guess the Chicago Past is conrect in this prognosis of the type of LI (road to day from Long Creek, beauty to be represented by the coming Woman:

Our mothers were homely The yesterday hardships of their life wrought ugly wringles on their brows, and stripped the fiesh from then bones. They were noble_self-sacrificing, and loveable, but not beautiful. It is the robust form, the ruddy complexion, and the sparkling eye that deserve that compliment And to this we are coming. Already pale faces have lost their interest. The 'interesting" woman is stopping to the rear. while the healthy woman is taking the front. We are fast approaching the day when our old maids will be of the traditional sort,—bare skin and bones,-and our wives, healthful and strong. That their daughters may lead happy married lives, the mothers of to-day should study carefully their best physical good.

On the second page of his paper, y storday, "cold" slaw publishes a long essay by the author from whom he took lessons in spelling Need we say that the name of the aforesaid author from the impediment but swears at their political brothren of Missouri. the same time that it's all right. But it is better, nevertheless

THE MEDICO-CHIRURGICAL SO-CIETY.

DECALUR, ILL., Nov. 27, 1874. The Medico-Chirurgical Society of Decatur, met in Dr. Sigmoid Flexure's office, pursuant to adjournment.

Dr Senissimus Anserinis, the president vas in the chair. The debate on The Differential Diag nosis between Scables and Tinca Cap itis, being in order, Dr. Rubrum Nasum was called on to open the debate, which he proceeded to do in a most learned manner, but which I will report in plain language that the unlearned and igno rant public may understand He said that the etiology of scubies was not like the heads of the Nile, a mystery and a snare, but was illuminated by the sages of antiquity and pictured by the scien tific members of our heaven called and God honored profession. The disease consists in nodules, vesicles and pustules. and results from uncongenial associations protracted to unwarrantable dura tion, and involves the cuticular envel ope of the digital extensions, where the phalanges join the metacarpal appen dages, and is caused by a protozoon troglodyte, ancmone, acarus, sarcoptes hominis, or other of our antedeluvian progenitors penetrating the epithelial scales and following the sinuosities of the basement membrane, finally establishing a foothold in the cellular tissue, causing a tantalizing pruritus very provoking when in the presence of even the unaulte, who persist in calling it "itch." This disease of animalcular origin, is amenable to treatment, and may be cured by a free application of sapo castile or sapo mollis, with aqua Sangamonis ad tibitiam Tinca Capitis, vulgularly called porrego farma or linea lupinosa, attacks the capillary bulbs on the scalp, and is caused by vegetable sporules and germinal filaments, thousands of which are

BOILING SPRINGS, Nov. 30, 1874. EDITORS REPUBLICAN :- Perhaps some of the many readers of your valuable ladies deserve a great deal of credit for things" which are so essential to the success of an enterprise of this character. On Tuesday evening the church was crowded to inconvenience, but notwithstanding, the gentlemen were very liberal with their 'stamps,' and the bivalves ice cream and cake, interspersed with candies, etc., disappeared in a manner possible to dispose of all the contributions, and it was thought best to renew the festival on Thursday evening. The crowd was not so large on the last evening, yet the house was pretty well filled.

RACE'S. The Question Answered-"How Linn & Scruggs employ so many salesmen and sell goods cheap." They keep the largest stock of dry goods in Decatur-they retail more goods than any other Dry Goods House in the United States, according to population, and their expenses are less in proportion to sales. Besides they are thus enabled to buy most of their goods of first hands and by the case and package, which gives them great advantage over small dealers.
